Cabinet Ware House.

Here is one of the inimitable dog stories of the Nashua Telegraph.—

A SMART DOG.—There is enough of the dog mixed up in the following story to entitle it to the name of a dog story.

A man down east had been exceedingly annoyed by wolves, which destroyed his sheep. In the course of time a dog tamer offered to sell him a dog. A very foolish dog he was, too. The catalogue of his merits was a very long one—there was not a dog virtue in the whole catalogue for which he was not distinguished—but if there was any one thing in which he peculiarly excelled, it was a prowess as a wolf hunter. This was touching our friend on the right spot. The bargain was closed, and he only waited an opportunity to test his merits.

At length there came a light snow just the kind of snow for wolf hunting, and he took his dog and gun and sallied out. He soon crossed the track of a varmint—the dog took the scent and bounded off in pursuit. On followed our friend, up hill and down dale, through brush and through briar, for two mortal hours, when he came across a Yonke of the species, chopping wool, and the following satisfactory dialogue took place:

"Did you see a wolf and a dog pass by here?"

"Well, I reckon I did."

"How long ago?"

"Well I guess about half an hour."

"How was it with 'em?"

"Well, just about nip and tuck—but the dog had the advantage, for he was a little ahead."

PATRICK'S COLT.

A gentleman who reminiscences respecting the early settlement of this place, formerly old Derryfield—relates the following anecdote.

When my grandfather resided at Goffstown and Derryfield, then settled by the Irish, he hired a wild sort of Irishman to work on his farm. One day, soon after his arrival, he told him to take the bridle and go out in the field and catch the black colt. Don't come home without him," said the old gentleman. Patrick started and was gone some time, but at last returned minus the bridle, with his face and hands badly scratched, as though he had received rough treatment. "Why Patrick, what is the matter—what in the name of wonder ails you?" "An' faith it's me, your honor, that never'll catch the old black colt again! but luck to him! An' didn't he all but scratch my eyes out o' my head? An' faith, as true as my soul's me own, I had to climb up a tree after the colt!" "Climb a tree after him? Nonsense! Where is the beast?" "An' it's tied to a tree, he is to be sure, your honor." We all followed Patrick to the spot to get a solution of the difficulty, and on reaching the field, we found to our no amusement, that he had been chasing a young black bear, which he had succeeded in catching after a great deal of rough usage on both sides, and actually tied it with the bridle to an old tree.—Brain was kept for a long while, and was ever after known as Patrick's Colt.'

Brandreth's Pills

READ and understand! The time will come when the medicine, Brandreth's Pills, will be appreciated as they ought and deserve it will be understood that Dr. Brandreth has the strongest claims upon the public. It is true that every individual who makes a trial of the Brandreth Pills, concedes them to be the best medicine they ever used. They are indeed a medicine about which there is no mistake. Their value in a climate so changeable as ours cannot be sufficiently appreciated. A free perspiration is at once restored, thus they cure colds, and consumption is prevented.

Those who have a redundancy of bile find them of the most essential service, and should there be a deficiency of that important fluid the Brandreth Pills have an equally beneficial effect. Often has this important medicine saved lives in those regions where the dreadful yellow fever was prevailing. A few doses taken immediately upon the infection being received into the system, will be most certain to prevent any material inconvenience. And at no stage of this dreadful epidemic is there a proper medicine as the Brandreth Pills. Let this medicine be universally used in this disease, and no loss of blood, and few very few, would be its victim. So it is with other diseases. Assist nature with this oil important medicine to remove morbid humor from the blood, and do not resort to bleeding or mercury, and we shall have a very great scarcity of persons affected with criminal maladies. The leather-trotter—the sensual kingdom—over which we are the lords, are not afflicted with chronic maladies; neither should we be if it were not for our pride which occasions them. Follow nature. Use the medicine which harmonizes with her, which mildly but surely removes all the impurities of the blood, which strengthens the feeble, and yet reduces those of too full health to a healthy standard. Let me again say that every department of the manufacture of Brandreth Pills is personally superintended by me, and that every box with my three labels upon it may be relied upon to have the beneficial effect described if used according to the directions accompanying.

of every description; and having had a long experience in the business, he can furnish as good work, and at a lower price than can be purchased in the county.

How was it with 'em?

"Well, just about nipp and tuck—but the dog had the advantage, for he was a little ahead."

An interesting Pamphlet, called the FAMILY HEALTH DIRECTORY.

FOR Gratuitous Circulation to all persons who will read, Preserve, and Lend it, is E. Linz, Bloomsburg, John Moore, Danville, John Buser, Milton, Waller & Co., Berwick.

All the following named Articles have obtained unbounded popularity, viz:

Rheumatism. Contracted cords, Stiff Joints, and Gout, will positively be cured by the use of the Indian Vegetable Elixir and Liniment.

The sceptical we invite to call and be personally referred to gentlemen of the highest standing in this city who have been cured of Rheumatism by this remedy. They are warranted the only genuine Defisce—Dr. McNamee's Acetate Oil has proved very successful in curing even total Deafness.

Longley's Western Indian Panacea—is the best family medicine in the world. It is a cure for Dyspepsia, Asthma, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Convulsions, Jaundice, Epilepsy, Debility, &c. &c.

N B It operates without the slightest pain, and at last returned minus the bridle, with his face and hands badly scratched, as though he had received rough treatment. "Why Patrick, what is the matter—what in the name of wonder ails you?" "An' faith it's me, your honor, that never'll catch the old black colt again! but luck to him! An' didn't he all but scratch my eyes out o' my head? An' faith, as true as my soul's me own, I had to climb up a tree after the colt!" "Climb a tree after him? Non-sense! Where is the beast?" "An' it's tied to a tree, he is to be sure, your honor."

We all followed Patrick to the spot to get a solution of the difficulty, and on reaching the field, we found to our no amusement, that he had been chasing a young black bear, which he had succeeded in catching after a great deal of rough usage on both sides, and actually tied it with the bridle to an old tree.—Brain was kept for a long while, and was ever after known as Patrick's Colt.'
